How much time is required to participate in a course?

Jelena - 2018-09-24 - Teacher Academy online courses (MOOCs)

This varies between courses, but on most courses, around 3-4 hours of work per week are required to complete a module. The idea is that you spend approximately 30 minutes per day on your professional development. However, it is up to you how much time you want to spend on a course. Most participants in our courses report having spent between 2-3 hours per week, but some say they went really into detail and spent more hours than that.
