Is it necessary to use social media for a course?

Jelena - 2018-09-24 - Teacher Academy online courses (MOOCs)

Although not necessary, using social media for a Teacher Academy online course will make the experience more fun! Joining the Facebook groups of the courses and following the discussions using their Twitter hashtags will enable you to meet like-minded participants, exchange useful resources and information and share your thoughts and ideas about the courses. Of course, you should not forget to check out the course forums, where you can also ask questions and receive answers about the course.
