

School Education Gateway Support

Knowledgebase > Online courses > Registration & Enrolments > Is it necessary to use social media for a course?

Is it necessary to use social media for a course?

Jelena - 2018-09-24 - Registration & Enrolments

Although not necessary, using social media for a Teacher Academy online course will make the experience more fun! Joining the Facebook groups of the courses and following the discussions using their Twitter hashtags will enable you to meet like-minded participants, exchange useful resources and information and share your thoughts and ideas about the courses. Of course, you should not forget to check out the course forums, where you can also ask questions and receive answers about the course.

Related Content

- Who can take part in a course?
- What kind of equipment or software do I need for successful participation in a course?